

Adaptive organo-mineral fertilizer for soil health

Description

IWMI developed a methodology to produce organo - mineral fertilizer from urban waste for improving soil health and suitable for application to food crops. Adaptable to different context depending on the available waste stream. The technology has been developed and tested in Ghana and Sri Lanka

Innovation Contributors

| Contributor | Description |
|----------------|---------------------------------|
| Olufunke Cofie | Email: O.Cofie@cgiar.org |

| | |
|---------------------|---------------------------------------|
| Available in | le Burkina Faso, le Ghana, Sri Lanka. |
|---------------------|---------------------------------------|

Institutions

